Simultaneous measurement of concentrations of aluminium and calcium in bovine milk using inductively coupled plasma mass spectrometry (ICP-MS). In a modified method for the simultaneous measurement of aluminium and calcium concentrations in bovine milk using inductively coupled plasma mass spectrometry (ICP-MS), the whole milk (0.5 L) is mixed with a 10-fold diluted nitric acid solution (0.5 mL). The pH is then adjusted to 1.4 using 30% ammonium acetate solution. After addition of 1 mL 30% ammonium acetate solution and 2 mL of hydrochloric acid, the milk is stirred for 15 min. After centrifugation, the supernatant is diluted with 0.05% HNO₃ (1 mL). The whole procedure can be completed in 1 h. The average concentrations of aluminium and calcium in bovine milk were determined to be $3.54 \pm 0.14 \mu\text{g mL}^{-1}$ and $1.42 \pm 0.04 \text{mg mL}^{-1}$, respectively. The within-run precision ranged from 3.9% to 5.1% for aluminium and from 1.5% to 2.6% for calcium, and the between-run precision ranged from 6.7% to 7.3% for aluminium and from 2.5% to 2.9% for calcium. The method has been successfully applied to the determination of aluminium and calcium concentrations in bovine milk from 4 different regions of China.
